

Barron Lighting Group Introduces New LED Exit and Emergency Lighting

Glendale, AZ – March 15, 2018 – Barron Lighting Group, the parent company to Exitronix exit and emergency lighting, announces three new products: the Nfinity NFT high output LED emergency lighting unit, the VEX-G2-NI thermoplastic LED exit sign and the XET Series of emergency lighting control devices.

“In 1984 Exitronix designed, engineered and manufactured the first LED exit sign. For 45 years Barron has been dedicated to providing our customers with the best exit and emergency lighting and to that end we are pleased to announce three new products: the Nfinity NFT, VEX-G2-NI and the XET,” said Heather McCune, Vice President, Sales Operations of Barron Lighting Group.

Exitronix offers a full line of exit and emergency lighting safety products including LED exit signs, emergency lights and ballasts for commercial and industrial applications.

The Nfinity NFT Series high-power LED emergency lighting unit provides industry leading 125' path of egress spacing. The Nfinity NFT eliminates the need for multiple emergency lighting units.

Attractive and easy to install, the VEX Series combines contemporary styling with quality LED illumination. The optional patent pending Numeric Indicator option (G2-NI) provides additional peace of mind with maintenance innovations to complement any application.

The XET Series allows local switch control of designated emergency luminaires when emergency power is provided by a generator or inverter.
