SIMPLY THROWING A BULB AWAY IS TEMPTING.

Simply throwing a bulb away costs nothing. However, in the United States, simply throwing away a bulb is a violation of state and federal environmental regulations.

By simply throwing away a bulb - you violate regulations and risk being fined. Government environmental agencies regularly investigate reports of facility noncompliance and, if violations are found, fines can range from tens to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Barron Lighting Group is pleased to announce the Growlite Lamp Recycling program.

With 45 years of experience and expertise in the lighting industry, Barron has a long history of solving lighting challenges.

One such challenge is the correct disposal of lamps. When HID lamps are not properly managed or disposed of in the correct manner, the mercury from these lamps will find its way into the environment, and ultimately ending up in the nation's waterways as well as into the food chain - heavy metals are dangerous for humans, animals, and the environment.

The Growlite Recycling Program was created to solve the challenge of lamp disposal.

The Growlite Recycling Program is easy, and convenient in just four (4) easy steps.

1. Include the part number GLL-RECYCLE as a line item on your return order.
2. When you re-lamp your fixtures with the new Growlite lamps, use that existing packaging for the old, spent lamps. Please keep the lamps intact and unbroken, it makes the shipping and return much safer!
3. Attach the included return shipping label and the fluorescent green recycle sticker to the packaging that contains the old lamps that are being sent back for recycling.
4. Return the old lamps to Growlite, by either scheduling a pickup or taking the package to a nearby shipping location.
5. DONE! It's that easy.
6. Once the old lamps are received at Growlite and quantities are verified, a certificate of recycling will be issued and sent to the end user. This certificate can be presented to municipal inspectors as proof that your facility is properly disposing of spent lamps.
